DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-14 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

Prior art of record fails to teach or fairly suggest a test unit connected to an aircraft cabin telephony system comprising: a pair of connectors for inserting the test unit in-line with the system; an AC voltage module operative to indicate the presence of an AC voltage when the test unit is connected to a Cabin Delivery System connector of the cabin telephony system; a signal module operative to detect the presence of data signals when the test unit is connected to the Cabin Delivery System connector; a DC power module operative to indicate the presence of DC voltage when the test unit is connected to a seat telephony box within the cabin telephony system; and a AC current module operative to detect an over-current condition when the test unit is connected to the Cabin Delivery System connector of the cabin telephony system as recited in independent claims 1, 14 and shown in figure 1. In other words, the test unit of claim 1 can be temporarily inserted into the cabin telephony system by line mechanic to detect the presence of data signals, AC voltage, DC voltage, and over-current condition, or lack thereof (see Applicant's remarks at the bottom of page 6, paper dated 8/4/2004).

Prior art of record fails to teach method of testing a cabin telephony system comprising: removably connecting a portable test unit to a cabin delivery system connector of the cabin telephony system; indicating a presence of an AC voltage when the test unit is connected to the cabin delivery system connector of the cabin telephony system; detecting a presence of data signals when the test unit is connected to the cabin delivery system connector; indicating a presence of DC voltage when the test unit is connected to a seat telephony box of the cabin telephony system; and detecting an over-current condition when the test unit is connected to the cabin delivery system connector as recited in independent claim 7 and shown in figure 1. In other words, the portable test unit of claim 7 clearly spells out that the test unit can be temporarily inserted into the cabin telephony system to indicate the presence of AC voltage only when connected to the cabin delivery system connector, detecting data signals only when connected to the cabin delivery system connector, indicating the presence of DC voltage only when connected to a seat telephony box and detecting over-current only when connected to the cabin delivery system connector (see Applicant's remarks starting at second to last line of page 10 and continuing to top of page 11, paper dated 8/4/2004).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
